After losing her ability to walk in an accident, Erin was forced to quit her job as a model. She felt miserable, but then she received news that her friend Bruce had passed away, as well. His will gives Erin everything he had, but there's one condition—she must live with his brother, Tyson, on their family farm in Texas. Why would Bruce do this to her? In the past, Erin was attracted to Tyson's solitary nature and she slept with him. The very next day, he sent her packing. She still bears the emotional scars from that day. Is this Bruce's revenge?

Pride and Prejudice in the Wild West Can anything good come from a man accepting a childish challenge when it involves a woman's heart? Lord Christopher Lockwood's life as a Western cowboy was all he imagined. Calloused hands, tan skin, and more hard work than he can handle. He gave up his aristocratic life of leisure to safeguard his only sister as she fled to America from the man who killed her husband. She found love again with a cattle rancher. It wasn't until a friend challenged Christopher to open his heart to the rancher's sister did he realize how little effort he'd made to get to know her. Priscilla Bellamy fell utterly and desperately in love with the English lord the moment he almost kissed her hand when they first met. Yet, he's never given her a second look. In fact, he has gone out of his way to ignore her when in the same room, so on her eighteen birthday, she made the difficult decision to end her pursuit of the handsome lord. Until something changed. Now Christopher is wholeheartedly pursuing Priscilla, but it may be too late for him to win her heart. Learning that his older brother has died, he needs to return to England. Can their romance bloom if they live on two different continents?

A young British duchess fleeing from her husband's murderer. A widowed American cowboy with a small daughter. Their second chance at love. At twenty-one, Jane Langley, Duchess of Chatham, is too young to be a widow. Her husband's misguided duel with his ruthless younger brother leaves him dead. The new duke's menacing threat to Jane—marry him or else—has her fleeing her home to America for safety, a place where she can buy her own property. Although Jane worries about her new role as a landowner in the Wild West, she wonders if a proper British duchess will be accepted in a land that lacks propriety. Does Carson City have a high society? Or does she become a pioneer woman? Her concerns change the morning she meets the ruggedly handsome cowboy Mr. Bellamy. Heath Bellamy is no stranger to misery. He lost his wife shortly after their daughter was born, and for the past two winters the cruel Nevada blizzards killed too many of his ranch's cattle. They need grass to survive. When a new owner takes over the neighboring big spread, he sees the possibility of the herd grazing on her land. When their relationship turns from friendship to deep affection, they must decide if love is worth risking getting their hearts broken all over again.
