My First Toddler Coloring Book Courier Dover Publications NEW - NEW - NEW - PUBLISHED IN MARCH 2018 This coloring book introduces the numbers 0 to 9 to toddlers and kids. Simple linking of numbers and images for coloring support age-appropriate learning and understanding. Whether a small child only enjoys coloring pictures and numbers, or whether it already has an interest in saying a series of numbers or counting figures, depends on its individual level of development. Even at the age of 2, infants may be interested in numbers. An understanding of numbers often begins at the age of 3 to 4 years. The exercises in this coloring book are very simple. Encourage your child as casually as possible to color the pictures, to study the book and to play. Pressure and excessive demands can have a negative effect on learning development. First, accompany your child a little while coloring the book. Give a little introduction that fits their interests and abilities. The book contains two different learning modules: In the first 30 pages numbers are directly related to a certain number of animals, flowers or things! The number 5, for example, is shown once as a number and directly next to it in the form of 5 hedgehogs. From page 31 to 60, two numbers and the corresponding amount of images are displayed. Example: The numbers 3 and 5 are shown as numbers and in the same image airplanes and balloons can also be discovered. Which number belongs to which figure? In this book children are deliberately not asked to write numbers! It's all about coloring and getting to know the numbers in advance of their later application. For coloring the pictures, soft crayons are very suitable.
